How is meaning reinforced through the language and

LANGUAGE DEVICE	DEFINITION
Simile	The writer compares this image of _____ to _____ to illustrate...
Metaphor	The writer uses the image of _____ to convey...
Imagery	The imagery shows...
Alliteration	The "___" sound is harsh/soft to imply...
Personification	The object _____ is compared to a human to portray...
Adjective	The adjective "_____" connotes _____, implying...
Adverb	The adverb "_____" is used to emphasise...

Structure / Form	Definition
Stanza	A set of lines grouped together; a verse in a poem.
Line	A group of words arranged into one row in a poem.
Repetition	Using the same word or phrase twice or more in a text.
Rhyme	Words that have or end with a sound that matches another.
Enjambement	When one line of a poem runs onto the next without punctuation.
Anaphora	Repeating a word or phrase at the beginning of each sentence.
Alliteration	The repetition of the same letters at the beginning of words.

Themes	Meaning	Suggested Pairings
The power of nature	Nature is an uncontrollable force.	'Exposure' and 'Extract from The Prelude'.
War and conflict	The physical, emotional, and psychological impacts of war, leading to suffering, and having a lasting effect.	'The Destruction of Sennacherib' and 'The Charge of the Light Brigade'.
Personal Conflict	Personal struggles related to identity, relationships, and how society expects you to be.	'Cousin Kate' and 'Half-caste' .
Memory and loss	The lasting impact of past experiences, grief, and the emotional pain of losing loved ones. Memories can be positive and negative.	'Catrin' and 'What Were They Like?'.
Strong Emotions	A strong feeling, for example: sadness, anger or fear that takes control of people.	'Cousin Kate' and 'A Poison Tree'.
Identity	How personal experiences, effect your experiences in the world. The struggles of belonging and the influence of society on individual identity.	'The Class Game' and 'No Problem'.

Key Vocabulary for Reading Section

Analysis	Evaluate	Viewpoint	Explores	Comparative
Shows	Powerfully	Celebrates	Creates	Likewise
Suggests	Effectively	Promotes	Evokes	Similarly
Implies	Creatively	Embraces	Establishes	Despite
Portrays	Cleverly	Questions	Reinforces	Contrastingly
Conveys	Purposefully	Challenges	Develops	Furthermore

Literature Paper 1: Section B ('Journey's End')

Structure: Introduction

- In this section of the paper, you will be required to write a contextual essay.
- This means that you need to know about World War One and discuss how this is shown through the play.

SENTENCE STARTERS

·'Journey's End' was written by...
· The play is set...
· The plot is about...
· Sherriff wrote the play to...

Model:

'Journey's End' was written by R. C. Sherriff in 1928. The play is set in the trenches of St. Quentin, France during World War One. The plot is about the experiences of soldiers in the days leading up to the Spring Offensive. Sherriff wrote the play to expose the truth of the mental and physically suffering of soldiers.

Structure: Main Paragraphs

- You need to aim for three/four paragraphs exploring a range of characters.
- You need to include relevant context and consider how this is explored in the play.
- Remember to be clear about Sherriff's intent – why does he include each character/event?

SENTENCE STARTERS

· Sherriff uses the character of ____ to explore...
· At the time...
· Therefore, Sherriff uses the character/theme of _____ to question/challenge/reveal...

Model:

Sherriff explores the reality of war through the trauma experienced by soldiers. At the beginning of the war, the government used propaganda to present war as an exciting opportunity for young men to entice them to enlist. Further, upper-class boys were trained for war through contact sports and being taught the values of duty, responsibility and leadership at public school. Once young men entered the front lines however, they soon realised they were completely unprepared for the horrific reality of war. Within the play, Stanhope copes with the 'strain' of war through drinking, admitting to Osborne at the end of Act 1, 'without being doped with whisky, I'd go mad with fright'. This emphasises how traumatic war was as even a Captain was unable to cope with the death and destruction brought on by war. This is reinforced by the altercation between Stanhope and Hibbert in Act 2 Scene 1. When Stanhope threatens to shoot Hibbert for desertion, Hibbert claims that he would rather die than continue fighting: 'I'll never go into those trenches again. Shoot!" Sherriff uses this event to reveal the extent to which soldiers were traumatised by war. Hibbert is willing to be considered a coward and bring shame to his entire family in order to not have to continue fighting.